Confirming QSO with W9YT on 14010 Mcs ~~AM~~/CW/~~SSB~~

UR Signals R 5 S 9 T 9 at 2235 GMT. On 13·8·66

Pse QSL Direct or via Bureau

—

73s From TNX QSO HPE CUAGN SN.
73 DENIS

POST CARD

HULL (or KINGSTON UPON HULL)

Is the Third Port in Great Britain, with a docks system extending 7 miles along the Humber, including 200 acres water area, 12 miles of quays, 3 deep-water jetties for discharging bulk cargoes of oil, chemicals and molasses, 2 riverside quays for rapid handling of perishable goods and passengers, and is served by 320 miles of railway lines.

Has direct Shipping services with important world-wide ports.
Is the terminus for extensive network of Inland Waterways.
Is an Industrial Centre admirably situated for supplies of raw materials from overseas and inland sources and the export of manufactured goods.

Has a great variety of successful industries, including—Oils, paints, chemicals and solvents; household, pharmaceutical and surgical requisites; typewriters, radiators and boilers; general engineering, ship repairing and building; saw-milling and wood-working; abrasives, cement, flour milling, food products, animal feeding stuffs and fertilisers, cod liver oil, fresh and processed fish.

It is an important centre of the seed-crushing industry.

Is the premier Fishing Port of Great Britain.

HISTORICALLY
An ancient Borough founded by Edward I in 1299.
The birthplace of William Wilberforce, the Slave emancipator.

Hull is a University City with a highly developed Education system including Teachers' Training Colleges, Colleges of Technology, Commerce, Art and Crafts and Marine Navigation, and has over 130 Grammar, Secondary Modern and Primary Schools.

It has a unique central Gardens on the filled-in site of the oldest dock in the Kingdom and one of the finest shopping centres in the North of England.

Population (1961 Census) 303,268.
Area of City, 14,493 acres.

For further information apply to:-

The Secretary, Development Committee,
Room, 30, Guildhall,
Hull, Yorkshire, England.

TO RADIO W9YT.

9